To Whom It May Concern:

Helen Robinett - Image Quest

Our company run quarterly self-development/motivation presentations for all employees, we were looking for an Image Consultant who could cover the subject without making people feel uncomfortable or upset. Helen was recommended by one of her industry peers as a professional who can deliver to all levels in a fun and interactive way.

From the first moment I spoke to Helen I immediately felt at ease and knew that we could work together to deliver a great presentation to the benefit of LeasePlan and our employees. Helen took time to learn about the company by walking around the office and getting a feel for how we work and the office "vibe".

Helen's presentation was interactive, fun and informative with many tips and hints, with little or no cost, which could be implemented immediately. Employees advised that they really enjoyed Helens presentation and took away a couple of tips, to implement.

I highly recommend Helen to individuals and companies, her knowledge, warm personality and professional manner make Helen a pleasure to work with.
